rule number 1 in self therapy whatever happens happens for a reason but it s never what it looks like even if we agree or not a very wise thing which i realised by the passing of time is that i should accept all what happens into my life cause there are certainly things which i don t clearly understand and most probably i won t be able to do it so very soon thinking like freud is a way of expressing my influence to the public of following the path of a so called self therapy and always keep in mind that we should analyse and define all related to our lives but analyse very very deep and define with honesty all what is going on keep also in mind that all is a non ending process that one day might help us to understand better who we are but also why our lives looks like they look like of course not many have a psychologist diploma but we don t need one for having this process of healing our souls hell no i don t have such a diploma of psychologist either and i ll never bother to do something so that i could get one all i know is that i have the right to speak to myself but also whisper to the others that they should try to find the elements that influence their lives and even dominate all around in such a profound way that in fact the whole scenario has nothing to do with what they really wanted all becomes a story about seeing life and mostly our lives from on million perspective so the final question remains should we bother to do it maybe yes maybe no but if your life just sucks this process of self therapy might be the right magic pill that you should test for a better existence and yes i believe it s better than alcohol drugs gambling and many other addiction that this life has to offer to us as the fifth full year of america s global war on terrorism continues statistics concerning terrorist attacks show a disturbing trend from a twenty one year high in 2003 attacks tripled in 2004 and then doubled in 2005 and as the incidence of terrorist attacks increased so has the number of terrorists while the primary leaders of the taliban al qaeda and al qaeda in iraq remain at large a 2006 department of defense study reportedly identified thirty new al qaeda affiliated terrorist groups that have been created since september 11 2001 we may not have metrics that measure our success in the war on terrorism but these realities certainly illuminate our failures in thinking like a terrorist former fbi counterterrorism agent mike german contends that the overarching problem is a fundamental failure to understand the terrorists namely what they want and how they intend to get it when our counterterrorism policies are driven by misunderstanding and misperception we shouldn t be surprised at the results today s terrorists have a real plan a blueprint that has brought them victory in the past that they are executing to perfection moreover their plan is published and available to anyone who bothers to read it once the terrorists plan is understood we can develop and implement more effective counterterrorism strategies a former undercover agent who infiltrated neo nazi terrorist groups in the united states german explains the terrorist s point of view and discusses ways to counter the terrorism threat based on his unusual experience in the field thinking like a terrorist provides unique insights into why terrorism is such a persistent and difficult problem and why the u s approach to counterterrorism isn t working
